Brief Report	The session was conducted by Prof. Bharat Damani and was an introductory session for all students who had registered for FB&C's case competition or those keen on learning how to approach case studies. It began with an introduction to the purpose of case studies at the college level, included a primer on case analysis, and was followed by a Q&A session where students could ask specific questions. The overall session was interactive and featured a detailed, step-by-step format for solving case studies. Following are the geotagged pictures from the session:
