Brief Report

The FLAME Astronomy Club successfully conducted a stall to celebrate Valentine's Day by spreading love and positivity in a simple yet meaningful way. Our initiative, titled "Send a Message Across the Universe," invited participants to write anonymous notes containing words of encouragement, hope, or kindness. Each visitor received a note from a stranger and, in turn, wrote a new note for the next person, creating a continuous cycle of uplifting messages.

Through this activity, we aimed to foster a sense of connection and warmth among students, reminding them that even small gestures can brighten someone's day. The stall received an enthusiastic response, with many participants appreciating the surprise and joy of receiving heartfelt words from an unknown well-wisher.
